You took the birth certificates when you kidnapped the children.

You are the father. Don't you have a birth certificate? I know you have the "ident-a-kid" cards. Your bluff is obvious.

Bring them home today, Tony. Stop and think about what you are doing. You are a reasonable man. Bring the children home.

Melissa, the children cannot possibly fly unless they have an ID. You need to get them a Michigan ID for me since the kids have have been living in Michigan since the kidnapping

Tony,

I purchased two tickets to return the children home at the commencement of my parenting time. You chose to refuse my court order compliant transportation.

As I said yesterday, you made this situation and you need to fix it. The children return to school tomorrow. They need to be home today. Bring the children home today. You are causing them harm. Both children told me they want to come home!

Tony,

As I've told you verbally, this house is a cell phone only home. I do not have a working jack to accommodate the phone you purchased for Rocco on his birthday.

I too feel it is important life skill that the children are comfortable using a phone. That is why they have been working on this skill since pre school, in their respective schools and with you and I.

They have a very standard cell phone waiting for them here from Santa. They can call, text and take pictures, but are not able to get on the internet.
